the poker social

Uma 3-bet no poker ocorre quando um jogador re-aumenta uma aposta e um aumento (raise) anterior, sendo o terceiro aumento em the poker social uma rodada de apostas. Este movimento é geralmente aplicado em the poker social jogos de Fixed Limit, no entanto, também é usado em the poker social jogos Pot Limit e No Limit como alternativa ao termo "re-raise".

Privilegio de uma 3-bet

A advantage of fazendo 3-bet no poker is to win the pot without reaching the flop, thus reducing the field and increasing the chances of winning. When a player uses a 3-bet strategy, they are essentially aiming to give action, build the pot, and defend start hand from being outdrawn.

Entendendo as implicacoes da3-bet

Realizar uma 3-bet implica que seu oponente deverá pagar duas apostas para ver o flop e, na ausência de cobertura imediata, ele estará sob pressão. Nesse sentido, 3-betar pode ser uma jogada ousada. Um jogador pode esperar receber boas mãos, ou seja, QQ+ ou A-K, em the poker social apenas 2,5% das mãos, tornando esta uma estratégia fortíssima.

3-bet no contexto de torneios de poker

No contexto de torneios, uma 3-bet pode ser uma jogada decisiva no head-up (confronto entre os dois últimos jogadores) como estratégia durante a "finalíssima". Ao contrário dos jogos cash, no torneio, em the poker social que os jogadores estão constantemente com pressão time, reduzindo assim a possibilidade de ausência de dinheiro. Quando esta jogada de 3-bet for executada, ela pode mostrar determinação e dedicação, aumentando a pressão nos oponentes decaindo-os a pagar a'all-in' seeds.

Preflop play in Pot Limit Omaha can be daunting.

There are 270,725 hands to wade through, and the all-in equities of said hands run very closely together.

AAKK is arguably the best starting hand in PLO. Let's take a look at its equity against T842:

This garbage hand musters over 34% equity against an absolute monster.

Edges

get smaller as equities run closer together, which is why PLO feels more gamble-y than NLH. But there are still tactics you can use to maximise your edge preflop and set yourself up for success postflop.

We'll talk about two preflop tactics in this article:

'pushing' and 'pulling'. These tactics can help give structure to the often-confusing world of preflop PLO.

Let's get straight to it.

Pushing vs pulling in Pot Limit

Omaha

'Pushing' and 'pulling' describe the two approaches we can take with a hand preflop. More specifically:

Pushing: The act of fast-playing to reduce the number of players that will see a flop

Pulling: The act of calling to induce other players to call as well

If you're a No Limit Hold'em player, you've probably used similar tactics.

Consider:

All the times you've attempted to 'push' multiple opponents out of the pot preflop by squeezing with a strong-but-vulnerable hand like AQo

The many times you've limped behind with a small pair to 'pull' more opponents into the pot for when you spike a set

That said, figuring out which hands to pull and push with is more complicated in PLO than NLH. Let's dive into specifics.

Which hands should you push with?

When pushing, our main goal is to minimise the number of players in the hand.

Therefore, we should choose to push with hands that play well in large, heads-up pots.

Hands that benefit from low stack-to-pot ratios—which allows us to get all-in on earlier streets—function well as pushes. Semi-connected, double-suited Broadway pair holdings—think KK78—and double-paired, double-suited middling hands—think TT99—are candidates that do well when the SPR is low.

Multi-component hands function well as pushes as well. (If you're unfamiliar with preflop components in PLO, read this article.). Hands with multiple components will connect with the flop across a variety of textures, thus allowing us to exert more pressure on our opponent(s).

Here

are five examples of hands you should usually look to push with:

AA45 single-suited

JJT9 double-suited 9988 double-suited ATTx double-suited T987 double-suited

Which hands

should you pull with?

Our goal when pulling is to incentivise calls from the players behind. The resulting multiway pot means we should look to pull with hands that can make the nuts relatively easy.

A single-suited, connected hand like AT98 is a prime example of a pulling hand as it can hit the nut flush and multiple nut straights. If we make our hand, we may win a big pot against a player with the second or third nuts, who came in behind us with a weak range.

Pulling hands realise their equity in a rough way—they hit a narrow range of board textures—and thus perform best when the SPR is high. It's typically best to avoid committing to the pot with hands that realise their equity in a rough way.

Here are five examples of hands that function well as pulls:

JT98 unsuited QQ98 single-suited AJ89 single-suited 789T unsuited AK98 double-suited

But it isn't always that simple

Some hands are exceptions to the pushing/pulling categorisation method used above.

Very strong hands that are connected, double-suited and A-high—think AKQJ or AKT7—may seem like pulling hands, but they are simply too strong to play as a call. Pushing with such hands is more effective, as it will allow you to extract value and thin the field, which means your great equity is more likely to hold.

Similarly, there are instances where we should pull with hands that we would usually push with. For instance, using a push hand as a pull is a good adjustment if there have been multiple callers and we don't have enough fold-equity to justify pushing given the strength of our hand.

Don't get carried away with pushing people around

Be careful not to go overboard when it comes to pushing and pulling. Just because a hand seems like a push doesn't mean you should raise it—or even play it—every time. For example:

$1/$2 PLO Cash Game. 100BB Effective Stacks

Hero is dealt J876

Tight player raises to R$6 from UTG. 5 folds. Hero...

Despite boasting multiple features of a typical pushing hand, this hand should be folded. Since we are up against a strong UTG opening range, pushing with a relatively marginal hand like this one would be far too loose.

J876 will find itself in a lot of tough spots postflop, and will often lose big pots at showdown when it hits good-but-second-best hands.

Keep this idea in mind when categorising your hands. Don't just push or pull for the sake of it – think about the ranges of your opponents and how your exact hand will shape up against them before you make your decision.

Final thoughts on pushing & pulling

Following the core principles outlined above is a good starting point, but always remember that your ranges should be fluid and exploitative adjustments should be made depending on the tendencies of your opponents.

Good luck at the tables!

P.S.: My next PLO article is going to involve analysing some interesting high-stakes hands – if you've got any requests for fun hands that you want analysed, tweet me at @GeorgeCMathias or post them in the comments section.

While all remaining players have the option to show their cards, in many cases players with losing hands will choose to simply toss their cards away without revealing them (known as mucking ) if they see that a stronger hand has already been shown.

Estados Unidos está tratando de proibir TikTok: ¿por qué y cómo?

La Cámara de Representantes de los Estados Unidos aprobó un proyecto de ley que obligaría a ByteDance, propietaria de TikTok, a vender la plataforma de redes sociales o hacer frente a una prohibición total en los Estados Unidos. El Senado aprobó la medida pocos días después. Joe Biden firmó la ley un día después de que el Senado votara a favor.

TikTok se enfrenta a la mayor amenaza existencial hasta ahora en los Estados Unidos. La aplicación fue prohibida en Montana el año pasado, pero los tribunales dictaminaron que la prohibición era inconstitucional y nunca entró en vigencia.

¿Por qué los Estados Unidos están tratando de proibir TikTok?

El proyecto de ley aprobado en la Cámara de Representantes es el último esfuerzo en una batalla política en curso sobre la plataforma, que experimentó un crecimiento explosivo en popularidad después de su introducción en 2024. La aplicación superó rápidamente a Facebook, Instagram, Snapchat y YouTube en descargas en 2024 y reportó un aumento del 45% en usuarios activos mensuales entre julio de 2024 y julio de 2024.

El rápido crecimiento de la plataforma alarmó a algunos legisladores, quienes creen que la empresa matriz con sede en China podría recopilar datos sensibles de los usuarios y censurar contenido que vaya en contra del gobierno chino.

TikTok ha repetido que no comparte y no compartiría los datos de usuarios de EE. UU. con el gobierno chino, pero las preocupaciones de los legisladores se exacerbaron por las investigaciones periodísticas que mostraron que los empleados con sede en China en ByteDance habían accedido a información no pública sobre usuarios de TikTok en los EE. UU.

TikTok ha argumentado que los datos de usuarios de EE. UU. no se almacenan en China, sino en Singapur y en los EE. UU., donde se enruta a través de infraestructura en la nube operada por Oracle, una empresa estadounidense. En 2024, TikTok abrió un centro de datos en Irlanda donde maneja los datos de ciudadanos de la UE.

Estas medidas no han sido suficientes para muchos legisladores estadounidenses y, en marzo de 2024, el CEO de TikTok, Shou Zi Chew, compareció ante el Congreso, donde fue interrogado intensamente durante más de cinco horas sobre estas y otras prácticas. Los legisladores le preguntaron a Chew sobre su propia nacionalidad, acusándolo de lealtad a China. Él es, de hecho, singapurense.

Varios esfuerzos para regular a TikTok y cómo interactúa con los datos de los usuarios de EE. UU. han flotado en el Congreso en el último año, culminando en el proyecto de ley aprobado el miércoles.
